☼ Sunapee Lake. ☼

IN all New England there cannot be found a more delightful sheet of water or finer lake region than Sunapee. Beautifully situated at the base of Old Sunapee Mountain, 1500 feet above sea level, surrounded by the granite hills of Merrimack and Sullivan Counties, with its mirrory surface, many islands, sandy beaches, rough rocky shores, large groves, windy points and pleasant harbors, makes a variety of lake scenery seldom if ever equalled.

A dozen years ago and Sunapee was comparatively unknown to the outside world. A steamboat's whistle had never been heard, and not a summer hotel or cottage, or hardly a score of row boats could be found on all its borders; but it was not long to remain thus. One or two cottages were built, then a hotel and a small steamer. Soon more, until to-day six steamboats and hundreds of sail and row boats ply its waters, furnishing every facility for the tourists visiting the place.

Located thirty miles north-west of Concord, it is reached from Boston by a four hours' ride from Boston & Lowell Depot to Lowell, through the Valley of the Merrimac to Nashua, Manchester and Concord, the State Capital; then over the Claremont Road to Newbury where three steamboats connect for all parts of the Lake.
